

Trans.21

Global Information on Automated People Movers

(617) 825-2318

www.airfront.us

lfabian@airfront.us

Planner's Guide:

New Urban Mobility Infrastructure

First on-line edition with companion flier, scheduled to appear March 21, 2008

Prospectus for Advertisers

The world is athirst for sustainable transportation. Yet there is no comprehensive source of planning information on the full range of urban mobility options, particularly Automated People Movers (APMs), including their high-end version as Personal Rapid Transit (PRT).

Architects, planners, engineers, developers, facility and port managers, transport and logistics executives, airport and public policy officials, and citizens have benefited from seven editions of the Planner's Guide to Automated People Movers. The 8th on-line version will be a superior and more useful medium. A trim, attractive document highlighting Trans.21's latest APM Count and Pipeline will direct people to the website. Cooperation with the following organizations is in place to assist digital distribution and publicity, with launch scheduled for March 21, 2008:

ATRA -- www.AdvancedTransit.org

APA -- www.apa-tpd.org

Advanced Transit for Metro Seattle -- www.gettherefast.org

Elevator World

French Institute of Research on Informatics and Automation -- www.inria.fr

Institute for Sustainable Transportation www.podcar.org

Int' Soc. Of City & Regional Planners www.isocarp.org

Momberger Airport Information -- www.momberger.com

Prospective 2100 www.2100.org

Innovative Transportation Technologies -- faculty.washington.edu/jbs/itrans.

You are invited to consider placing ads at one of three levels:

- A. Friend $500 (name on frontpage, expanded company profile)
- B. Booster $1,000 (name + logo, expanded profile, ¼ page ad)
- C. Enabler $2,000 (high-lighted on frontpage, expanded profile + ¾ page ad placement)

Call Larry Fabian at (617) 825-2318 or email lfabian@airfront.us.